Woman Likely to Run For Congress Is Here

A possible candidate for Congress, and three years State superintendent of public instruction in Colorado, Mrs. Helen L. Grenfell has come to Washington to tell how the vote of women in her State has affected the education of Colorado children, and the influence of woman suffrage upon other vital questions.

All men and women, who are interested in the cause of votes for women, are invited by the National Woman Suffrage League, one of the most enterprising suffrage organizations in Washington, to come to the La Fayette Arms, 224 H street northwest, this evening at 8 o'clock to Mrs. Grenfell's lecture. Miss Mabel Foster, daughter of Representative Foster of Illinois, is president of the league, under whose auspices Mrs. Grenfell will lecture.

Mrs. Grenfell is one of the pioneer suffragettes of the West. She has taken active part in many woman suffrage campaigns, and expects to convince her hearers tonight that woman suffrage for the District is not far distant.

Police Succor Pigeon Exhausted by Flight

Exhausted after a long flight, a carrier pigeon fluttered to the ground this morning in the yard in front of the Seventh precinct police station, in Volta place, near Wisconsin avenue.

The policeman carried the bird into the station, and after giving it food and water fixed up a soft bed in a basket. On the bird's leg was a silver band marked "U. S. 17,596."

William Disner, secretary of the Washington division of the American Federation of Home Pigeon Clubs, said the pigeon, according to its number, belonged to L. Lockmiller, of Baltimore. It is believed the bird was started from some point South.

The policeman will take care of the pigeon until it regains its strength, when it will be sent on its journey.

Receivership Sought For "The Auto Station"

A receiver for "The Auto Station," a garage of Arthur R. Parker and H. Milton Berry, at 1713 Fourteenth street northwest, is asked in a suit filed today in the District Supreme Court by the Frank C. Kinckley Company, an automobile supply firm, at 1112 Fourteenth street northwest.

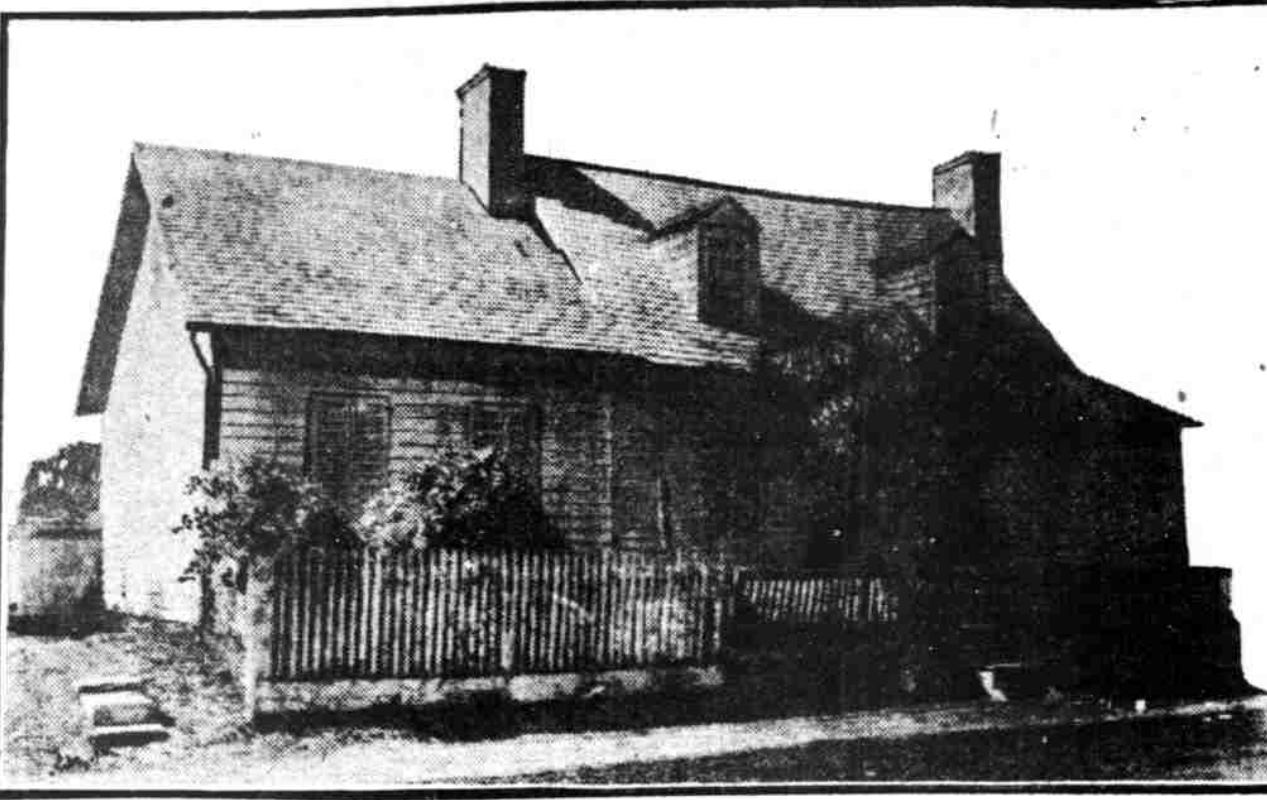

Insolvency of the partnership is charged in the suit to restrain the partners from collecting debts or paying out any partnership funds.

FINE GOWNS MAKE 'EM FAR TOO SWEET

School Head Says Girl Graduates Must Wear Cheaper Dresses.

Being of the opinion that "the sweet girl graduate," adorned in a dress worth $125, is far too sweet, the principals of the various high schools in the District, appointed by Superintendent A. T. Stuart to bring a bout a modification, will meet next Wednesday in the Franklin School to determine what is a sane price to pay for the graduation gown.

Mr. Stuart said this morning he had known of instances where the graduation dress had cost $125. While he said that such a sum is an unusual amount to pay, he would not hazard an estimate as to the average cost of the gowns worn by the high school graduates in Washington. He is satisfied the dresses have been too elaborate and have embarrassed the parents as well as the pupils who could not afford them.

So many assurances of co-operation were received by Mr. Stuart within the last few days that he is confident the required modification will be made by the parents without the necessity of resorting to the plan of prescribing a uniform dress.

"I would hesitate to take that step," Mr. Stuart said, "for it would make our graduates look too much like pupils of an orphan asylum or reform school. I shall depend a good deal on the people who really can afford expensive gowns to bring about the reform. Even their children should not be elaborately dressed, for it schools them in extravagance."

Until the meeting Wednesday it will not be known what plan will be considered the most feasible. After the principals make their report and recommendation, Superintendent Stuart will submit one to the Board of Education. That will be taken up at the next meeting of that body.

INTER-CORPORATION SALE TO BE PROBED

Judge Rose's Ruling Puts New Aspect on Current Investigation.

Attorney George H. Lamar will resume his investigation of the inter-corporate relations of the Washington Railway and Electric Company and its subsidiary companies, at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning.

This time he will be backed by the order of Judge J. C. Rose, of the United States circuit court in Baltimore, directing William F. Ham, treasurer of the companies comprising the local railway and electric combination, to answer Mr. Lamar's questions.

Examination of witnesses, in the case of the people of Montgomery county against the Washington and Rockville Railway Company, was to have been resumed at the car barn at Fourteenth and East Capitol streets today, but was postponed at request of Mr. Lamar.

When it is resumed it is expected definite information as to the holding company's dealings in electric current will be obtained. Mr. Ham was asked last week to tell what the holding company pays the Potomac Electric Power Company for its subsidiaries.

—for the current it sells to the Rockville company—another of its subsidiaries. Mr. Ham refused to answer. In view of the ruling made on this point by Judge Rose yesterday he will now have to reply.

Life's Blessings

For the mother in the home to be strong and well, able to devote her time and strength to the rearing of children, is one of life's greatest blessings. Often the bearing of children injures the mother's health, if she has not prepared her system in advance for the important event. Mother's Friend is a penetrating oil that thoroughly lubricates every muscle, nerve and tendon involved at such times, and thus promotes physical comfort. It aids nature by expanding the skin and tissues and perfectly prepares the system for the coming of baby. Mother's Friend assures a quick and natural recovery for every woman who uses it. It is for sale at drug stores. Write for free book for expectant mothers.

D. A. R. IS SPLIT OVER ITS GIFT OF RECORDS

Story Faction Urges Their Recall From Congressional Library.

Recall of its gift of the famous Chalkley genealogical records to the Congressional Library by the Daughters of the American Revolution is a question promising a serious quarrel at the coming session of the annual congress.

A congressional inquiry to probe the presentation of the valuable records, containing the only authentic history of many Virginia families during colonial days, is being agitated by members of the Story faction of the D. A. R.

The administration party is blamed for donating the Chalkley archives to the Congressional Library without observing regulations of the order. It is said the board of management ordered the gift on advice of a committee, of which the chairman was a member of the board.

Of Great Genealogical Value.

Of unusual genealogical value, the Chalkley records were bought in 1905 by the D. A. R. from Judge Lyman Chalkley, of Augusta county, Va., for $500. This price is far below their actual value, it is reported, Judge Chalkley revealing the records, believing they would be published by the D. A. R. He was unable financially to cause their publication.

For some reason the congress has failed to publish the records, recently donating them to the Congressional Library. Members of the Story faction now declare they are without assurance that publication is intended by the library officials.

Members of the D. A. R. say the Chalkley records, saved from the torch of the Union army during the civil war, are priceless, being the only information with complete records of Virginia families extant, and upon which the existence of many family trees depends. Their testimony is the proof for admission or rejection of thousands of American women into the D. A. R.

Saved From the Burning.

Judge Chalkley saved the records when county clerk of Augusta county, Union soldiers raiding the country intended to burn the books, but Judge Chalkley rescued them by pleading with a brother Mason in charge of the soldiers. Judge Chalkley has since copied the old, tattered books, soiled now and almost illegible from oil, smoke, and fire of fifty years ago.

The Congressional Library is expected to refuse the records until the circumstances surrounding their presentation are cleared before the D. A. R.

Navy No Dumping Ground For Criminals, Say Chiefs

CHICAGO, March 18.—Another attempt to send convicted men into the United States navy has aroused the ire of navy officers. The sentence imposed by Judge Merritt W. Pickney yesterday has resulted in a fusillade of telegrams of protest. Among those who sent them were Admiral Levey and Assistant Secretary of the Navy Beekman Winthrop.

AGED CONTRACTOR HAS SUDDEN DEATH

John McGregor Built Many Well-Known Local Structures.

John McGregor, a building contractor, seventy years old, died suddenly last night in his home, 212 Maryland avenue northeast. The direct cause of death was acute dilation of the heart. Mr. McGregor was in the best of health last night when he left his office, 728 Twelfth street northwest.

Mr. McGregor was born in Fortingall, Perthshire, Scotland, and after being educated in the schools there learned the carpenter's trade. He was located in Glasgow, Scotland, until 1853, when he came to America, settling at Hartford, Conn. In 1871, he came to Washington, and was engaged as a carpenter under Superintendent Smith at the Botanic Gardens for ten years. Since 1881 he had been in business for himself as a general contractor and builder.

Many well-known buildings and residences in this city have been erected by him, among them being residences of Wayne MacVeagh, Mrs. Mary D. Heyl, M. S. Quay, Charles W. Needham, Stephen B. Elkins, the Gunton Temple Memorial Church, First Baptist Church, George Washington School of Diplomacy, and several telephone exchanges of this city and Baltimore.

He was a member of the Master Builders' Association, a thirty-second degree Mason, a member of the Royal Order of Scotland, and a member of the Fourth Presbyterian Church.

Mr. McGregor survived by his widow, and the daughter, Mrs. M. P. Barnes. The death of his youngest daughter, a week ago last Tuesday, it is thought, worried him a great deal, and hastened his death.

Funeral service will be at the family residence, 212 Maryland avenue northeast, Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will be in Glenwood Cemetery.

Fourteen Cougars Killed By Hunter

Charles Adkins, the "cougar man" of this section of the country, has succeeded in adding another cougar pelt nine feet long to his collection.

He saw the cougar's tracks in the road, and, calling his hounds started in hot pursuit. After a short run the cougar was treed, and Adkins shot it dead. Every winter when the snow falls in the mountains the cougars come down into the bottoms and along the rivers in quest of salmon, which are plentiful as well as easy to get this time of year.

This is the fourteenth cougar that Adkins has killed within the last four years.—Telephone Review.

Troopers in Bareback Drill at Fort Myer

A bareback drill executed by Troop B, of the cavalry stationed at Fort Myer, with Lieut. W. W. Overton commanding, was the feature of yesterday's exhibition at the post. It was the first "weekly" drill that has been held since the force of troopers at Fort Myer were depleted by the removal of the field artillery to the Mexican border. An exhibition of Cossack riding by Troop D, of the Fifteenth Cavalry, under command of Capt. H. C. Smith; a jumping detachment of Troop A, under command of Capt. Julian R. Lindsey, and a broadsword contest between mounted men, under command of Lieut. C. B. McNeil, were the other numbers on the program.

AMONG the effects of MARY BAKER EDDY'S sister-in-law was a trunk that had not been opened for years. When its contents were examined, there came to light a packet of letters written by the great Christian Science leader in her schooldays.

These letters form the basis of a most interesting and significant chapter in the life of the most remarkable woman of modern times.

The Girlhood of Mary Baker Eddy

IN Munsey's Magazine

for April

THE letters have never before been published, and they shed an entirely new light upon a much discussed period of Mrs. Eddy's life, revealing the characteristics that were later evidenced in her greatness. Accompanying them are two hitherto unpublished portraits of Mrs. Eddy, and a poem written many years ago but never printed until obtained for exclusive publication in MUNSEY'S MAGAZINE.

The April MUNSEY contains eight special articles, eight short stories and a splendid serial—one of the most engrossing numbers we have published in years.
